“The world should pay attention to INK” - Libby Purves

Registered Charity No: 1175770

INK is a registered charity, that sources, develops, and produces the best new short plays for stage, and radio, by writers with an East Anglian connection. INK is a journey from an idea to writing to performance.

The INK Festival is our headline event. Held every April at The Cut, Halesworth, Suffolk we showcase over 25 brand new short plays with professional actors and directors. We take the best from the Festival on tour around East Anglia.

During the year INK offers workshops, talks and mentoring to aspiring writers and actors from East Anglia, whatever their age, whatever their experience.

“ This is an incredible Festival to be involved with, it is already great and yet now INK is on the cusp of something amazing, we are delighted to be involved and watch the publicity and support for INK explode ”

Charlie Hopkinson MD Imaginative Traveller.

Why sponsor INK?

INK Expansion – Last year the Festival was a sell out and we are predicting our audiences to grow as we expand INK 2019 to a further day. Benefit now on the crest of our success!

INK Encounter – Our website in 2018 had over 22,000 hits, this year our new site is proving even more popular. Ensure your company name appears on it!

INK Exposure – INK is well-supported by the local media, in 2019 we are planning even more of a story for the press. Be part of that story.

INK Community – Throughout the year we work in the community encouraging and supporting children, senior citizens and the disabled with time and assistance. Help us to help them.

INK Effect - Creative activity increases the sense of individual efficacy, enhances self-esteem and improves the social wellbeing and economic future of community.
